PURE MALT WHISKEY.

Washington (D. C.) National Republican.)
The practice of drenching the human stomach with cod-liver oil is fast falling into disnes. This is owing to the interity indigestible qualities of this nameating quackery. There is no stomach in the world that can digast cod-liver oil in its pure state. For this reason a certain per cent, of alcoholenters into the composition of this so-called relief. Consumptives, so soon as they discover the nature of their maindy, rush to the nearest drugstore and begin at once to take all kinds of nauscating medicines. Impurestinutants and poisonous infortents. Their stomachs soon become debiliated and deranged, and under such circumstances it is no wonder that they cannot build up the system nor repair the waste of tissue. It is now well known that cod-liver oil forms degenerated fat. J. R. Perdue, superintendent of Central school, gave a very interesting re-port of the school, showing that it is fully officered and provided with a corps of prompt and faithful teachers. The school is moving on harmoniously in every department and doing good work for the Master.

Rev. W. E. Evans, of Park-Place church, addressed the meeting, calling attention to some of the important features of Sunday-school work, such as Punctuality-always in the right place in the right time unless providentially hindered; Preparation-making oppor-tunities to read and think about the coming lesson, so as to give to every pupil a proper portion in due season; Perseverance—never weary in well-do-ing, sowing the seed of life. Mr. Sherrell, of Randolph-Macon

College, addressed the meeting-sub-ject, "The Sunday School as an Adunct to the Church." The Church is first in importance—the Sunday school next. The Sunday school is the place in which the work of the Church begins and one of the instruments in the hands of the Church for the accomplishment of the will of God in the salvation of the world. The Sunday school is an invaluable aid in eradicating evil from the world. The influence of the Sabbath school will always be felt in every

You can therefore imagine my surprise when the four members reported, as above stated, and yet I believed that the Legislature would either have vindicated the action of the Board or censured them, but to my great surprise they actually adjourned without taking any action whatever on these reports. useless for me to say that if the statements in that report, not only as to myself, but as to the officers of the institution were correct, it was the bounden duty of the General Assembly to the people of Virginia to take some action, and in that action would be found the full vindication of all concerned or their removal from office

AUNDAY'S MEETING.

It is simply wonderful how inconsist-ent over-zealous people can be. The local-optionists who preach prohibition seem impressed with the idea that in their cause "the end justifies the their cause "the end justifies the means," and in their battle for their self-styled moral position, like all zealots, they say practically, "Your doxy is heterodoxy, but my doxy is orthodoxy." They pose as the great moral portion of the community—the champions for the suppression of the liquor tradic and the proper observance of the traffic and the proper observance of the Sabbath. Yet do we not see them betaking unto themselves prerogatives which they have denounced in and denied to others?

It was only a few years ago, if our memory serves us right, that Mr. Louis Schade, of Washington, was invited to Richmond to make an address upon temperance as he understood it. Sunday was chosen for the time and Sænger Hall the place for the address. Scarcely had the announcement for his appearance in this city been made when columns of protests were written and published in your paper—protests against this Sab-bath violation. His ideas of temperance did not agree with those of the pro-hibitionists of the day, and they would have invoked the law to stifle his utterance. How different their action when their side of the question is to be pre-sented. A United States Senator, Mr. Colquitt, is invited to the city, the Mozart Academy rented for the occasion, and the public has barangues at length by a politician as to how they should cast their votes in the approaching election, and all this on the Sabbath. And what if the opposition party should import some speaker to present their views of this great moral question at the same place next Sunday, would the prohibitionists not again protest against desecration of the day?

Then, too, the ministers (and we are the last to do aught but help them in their legitimate work) who head the prohibition movement-what if they should, in their zeal for prohibition, lend their presence at such a politcal meeting on Sunday? and, what is more, if one of their number—the Rev. contributors)-should do the work of a reporter on that occasion? Should the day is fidelity—tidelity to God, to they not lecture themselves on this exhumanity, and to himself—and closed cessive indulgence? Is the cause of religion to be advanced by such action?

We fear not.
